This RFP format is designed to solicit detailed, specific responses. This format may be of great value if your organization is comparing technical aspects of services offered.

It also works well when organizations have identified a small pool of respondents, allowing staff and committee members to easily distinguish specific differences between candidate services.

Elements to include in your organization’s cover letter when sending out the RFP:

- A brief description of your organization, its mission and constituency
- A brief statement indicating the purpose of the RFP and/or what inspired your organization to search. You may or may not wish to include the name of the incumbent.
- Scope of services on which candidates should propose, including any specific reporting, meeting schedule or other elements are required by your organization
- Asset(s) to be managed, defining the amount of each asset pool, its purpose and whether any restrictions on the assets apply. It is helpful to attach to the letter your most recent investment policy, spending policy and statement of holdings.
- Proposal delivery instructions, including
  - Preferred delivery format (electronic or hard copy) and number of copies (if applicable)
  - Proposal due date and time
  - Proposal receiver’s name, email and phone number
    - Contact person for questions, including name, title, phone and email
    - Any additional information your organization feels is important for respondent firms to know in order to provide complete proposals
